

Abstract

A single-piece cosmetic product container having a container body for holding a cosmetic product and at least a covering element, the container body and covering element being made as a single piece by injection molding a single component which includes a hinge assembly. The invention relates also provides a method for making the single-piece cosmetic product container by injection molding the container element and a covering element.